I was making an Image component and wanted to make a function that will display an image and change its color dynamically. My problem is that I have two functions: One that will change the opacity of the image dynamically, and another that will change the color of the image. The first function is working, but I'm having trouble passing the image in a function that changes its color. This is my code: `import React from 'react'; import { Image, TouchableHighlight, View, StyleSheet } from 'react-native'; const productImage = (image, color) => { let props = { style: { opacity: 0.5, }, source: { uri: image }, }; return (<changeColor(color)>`
